About AIDES

Established in 1984 and officially recognized as a non-profit organization in 1990, AIDES is the leading association in France in the fight against AIDS. Since its inception, its objective has been to bring together people either directly or indirectly affected by HIV/AIDS to have them join forces in the face of the epidemic. Its philosophy is that those living with or affected by HIV/AIDS should not stay on the sidelines, but instead initiate and take action, be active participants in health services, and inform significant public health decisions that affect them.
